

Nutrition Strategy followed by Geeta for weight management, polycystic ovary syndrome (PCOS) and Depression

A few years ago, I was overweight, sleepless, and very depressed. To cope with the stress, I drank wine every day. My periods were very irregular and I was tired of the medications I was taking. I had to visit my doctor every week for some reason or another.

I visited several nutritionists and took their plans, but I couldn't implement them. That's why I didn't trust nutritionists. One day I saw one of my friends who looked very slim and attractive. She said she lost nearly 10 kg with the help of Dietician Priyanka. I didn't really trust the nutritionist, but her plan was very budget friendly, so I called her.

I told her all my health concerns and that I couldn't live without milk and every nutritionist had always told me to avoid milk because of PCOS. So I was told that I don't need to avoid any of the foods in the plan unless I my body was sensitive to it. The only thing I was told to avoid was sugar. I agreed with her and accepted the 3 months plan.

She took a detailed look at my body measurements, etc. Then she prepared my plan as I wanted. She recommended some herbs and chamomile green tea to combat stress. I drank milk every night and tried to stick to the plan 100%. I used to have smoothies for breakfast dal, roti, sabzi, salad, chutney and curd for lunch and light dinner. To stay active, I started cycling every day. Whenever I needed help, she answered all my calls, and that really impressed me.

About a month later, my period came on time. Yes, I was very happy to get my period without using medication for the first time in about 3-4 years. And now I don't need to depend on alcohol to deal with stress.

I lost about 8 kg in 3 months and again my period was on time. I never thought that diet has so much impact on our health. I felt lighter now and full of energy. I would like to continue until I lose another 10 kg. Thank you Priyanka for restoring my confidence.
